1912 Chilliwack Residents Gather: Laying of the Chilliwack High School Corner Stone

1912 - September 3 - The corner stone of the new Chilliwack High School (Brick Building) well and truly laid by Sir Richard McBride, Premier of British Columbia.

Approximately 2,000 people attended the ceremony, with 800 school children from valley schools. The Premier and his party were driven in automobiles attended by six mounted boy scouts.

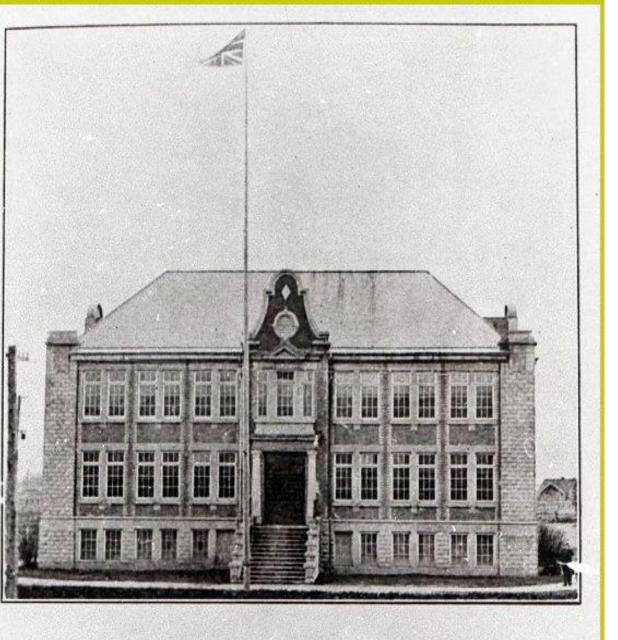

THE CORNER STONE OF THE NEW HIGH SCHOOL WELL AND TRULY LAID

A Peaceful Scene on a Peaceful Day, Made Pleasant by the Attendance of Thousands---Sir Richard McBride, Premier of British Columbia, Attends.

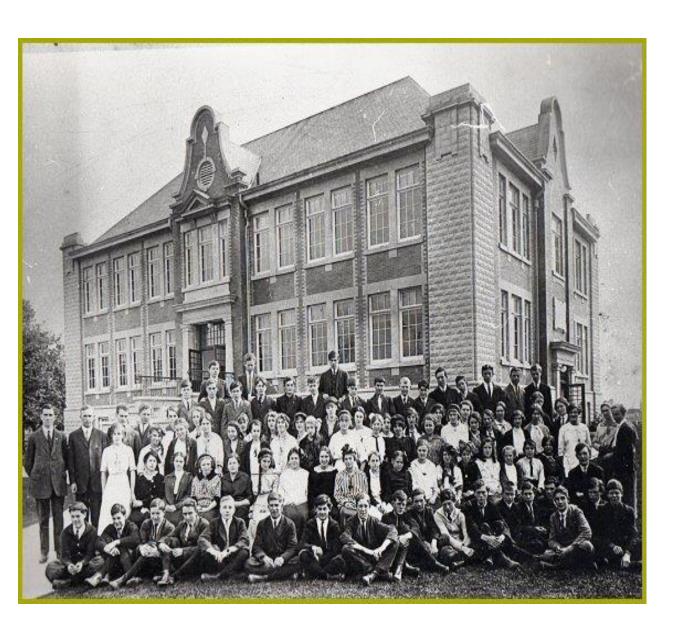

The corner stone of Chilliwack's new high school was well and truly laid yesterday afternoon by Sir Richard McBride, premier of British Columbia, in the presence of fully two thousand of the citizens of the city and valley. Eight hundred of this number were children from the schools of the district of Chilliwack who, marshalled under their respective teachers, presented a very pretty sight indeed as they were formed up in solid square in front of the foundation of the massive building that is soon to become the future higher seat of learning for the rising generations of Chilliwack. This sight was further enhanced as they sang the Maple Leaf Forever and waved miniature Union Jacks and gave cheers for their premier and the others on the platform.

The laying of the corner stone of the high school may truly be counted one of the events in the history of Chilliwack. It marks the epoch from which the people of this valley may date their expansion into the world of higher education, and it was fittingly commemorated by the attendance of many of the men holding high positions in the gift of the Dominion and the Province. Among those attending and honored with positions on the platform were: Sir Richard McBride, premier of British Columbia; Mr. J. D. Taylor, Member of the House of Commons of Canada; Speaker Eberts, of the Provincial Legislature of British Columbia; Mr. Manson, M.P.P. for Dewdney; Mr. Gifford, M.P.P. for New Westminster; Mr. F. Mackenzie, M.P.P. for Delta; Mr. Pearson Shaw, M.P.P. for Kamloops; Mr. Fletcher, Government Agent for New Westminster; Mr. J. Cambridge, County Court Registrar; and Mr. Glover, Assistant General Manager of the B. C. Electric Railway Company, and Mr. Alan Purvis, Manager of Interurban lines of the B. C. E. R. Others on the platform consisted of members of the township and city school boards; members of the city and township councils; representatives of the high school staff and members of the press.

Chilliwack Progress, May 28, 1913 New High School is now Open

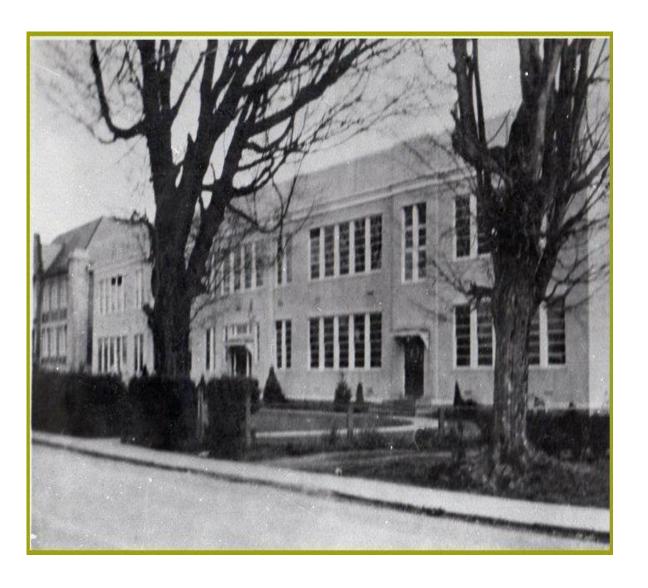

Following ten months of construction, teachers and pupils of Chilliwack High School traded their old building for their brand new one.

The new school is a substantially constructed, fire-proof, and modernly equipped building, situated in beautiful surroundings.

This new structure occupies a strategical and commanding position on the corner of Charles Street and Westminster Avenue.

The lot is a beautiful three and one-half acre block of the old Henry Kipp property, edged by a grove of cherry trees.

April 17, 8:30 Monday—school life began.

Fifteen minutes later the doors of the new $53,000 junior high school swung open for the first time.

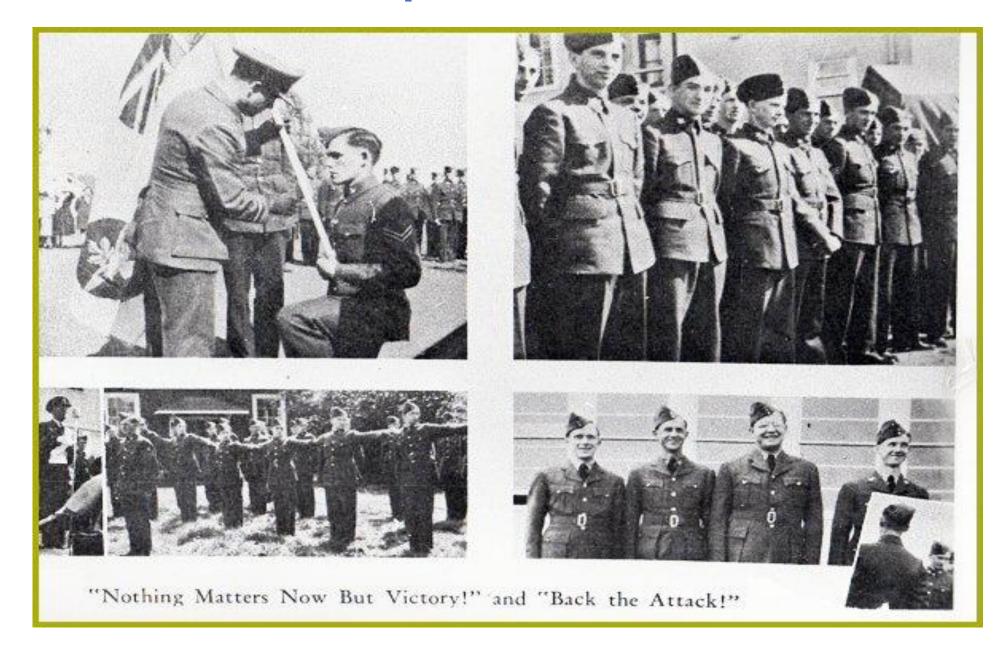

School authorities were satisfied with the re-establishment of 600 pupils.

Students shifted from one- to seven-room country school houses to the new 16-room school.

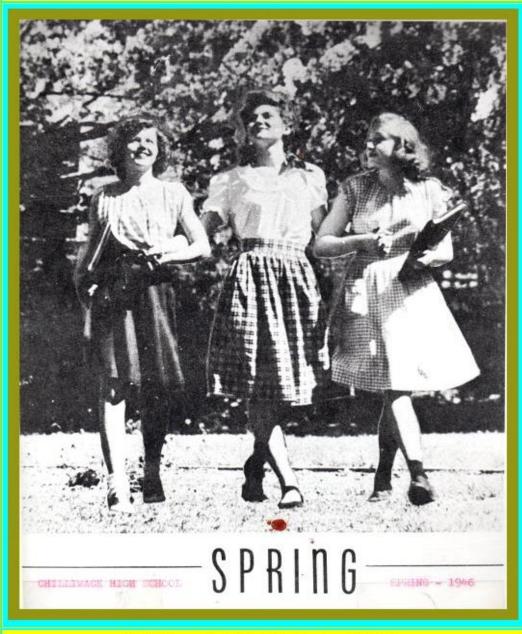

Almost 400 students attend classes at the junior high, with six Grade VIII classes and five Grade IX classes.

The entrance classes have 35 students; with 36 pupils in the five first-year classes.

Students Take Over High School

Trek of 875 book-laden students by foot from Chilliwack Junior-Senior High school across Yale road and along a walk to the new high school is etched indelibly in the minds of Principal Wilf Graham and his teaching staff.

They watched the migration at 8:30 a.m. Monday, the first day of school for students in district 33.

They are still talking about the horde of students with their desk clearings—text books, note books, pens, paper and bottles of ink—that made the early morning trip from the old to new high schools.

The new high school, in comparison, looked more like a huge training unit with a city department store savor.

Inside a row of glass doors students found themselves at the uncrowded crossroads of the $½ million dollar structure. Straight ahead lay the unfinished cafeteria, classrooms, training units such as the woodworking and agricultural sections of farm mechanics and home economics.

At an angle were lockers for each student past the stone wall, glassed-in shelves for trophies and cups that students hope to win, the school office with business departments and a highly polished counter, a "nerve center" for communication with any room, and more classrooms.

Buzzers, bells and loud speakers echoed through the building after school hours from 2:30 p.m. Monday as engineers synchronized the time clock and made other acoustic adjustments.

NERVE CENTER

Earlier, Principal Graham issued orders from the "nerve center"—a small room, partially glassed-in where a complete intercommunications office is housed with record equipment and a record player.

Bulletins can be beamed to any room in the school, also CBC school broadcasts or recorded music from a turntable with variable speeds.

Yet to be fully completed is the cafeteria, the home economics room and some classrooms where old-style desks are serving until the new ones are installed.

HIGH SCHOOL HIGHLIGHTS

By Marie Awram

Big news! The senior students have moved into the new high school. On Monday the first day of school after the Christmas holiday, students from grades 9-13 packed their bags and carted their belongings into the ultra modern building.

 The new half-million-dollar project has everything in the line of conveniences and modern artistry.

Although exploration of the school was forbidden on Monday because of the unavoidable confusion, students managed to peek through open doors as they marched from classes for their subjects.

The rooms are painted and furnished in light colors thus providing an excellent lighting system. The students enjoy an efficient heating system also.

There is a dark room for developing pictures, a fully equipped chemistry lab, modern library and study, beautiful music and art rooms. The home economics cooking room is wonderful. They have even got a cupboard that dries wet tea towels.

TO YOU, My Young Friend, in this month of roses, of golden, sunny hours comes the day which has been your goal for years past. And now that it is here, I am sure that you pause, if it is only for a moment, to consider. You were born into this world when your mothers and fathers wrestled with the tragic problems of depression in a world of plenty. You began your schooling when we were thrust into a global hologogue the like of which the world had never seen. Your secondary education has taken place in the post-war years as we "search for a brave new world." I rust that your years together in this school with your teachers and fellow students have in a small way, contributed towards your being a broad and critical thinker, an idealist and yet a realist. It may be questioned whether men and women have not been bore faster in the last bondfeel years than they could be civilized, whether inventions have not been made faster than they could be absorbed, whether quantity has not outrum quality. Or it may be asked if too much energy has not been devoted to certain sides of human life. It seems at times we headly know where we stand or whither we are going. You have seen and studied unusual forms of government which have been set up here and there, as well as strange theories and practices in art, music, medicine, and literature, and it is idle to predict what moneytosity toosotrow may bring forth. In spice of this, however, goodness and decensy are prevailing. This is no time for degraddency. Rather it is the time for you, with your vigour, your intellect, and your sense of right, to prepare yourself that you may help to create a better world. Upon your shoulders is about to be placed the responsibilities and rights of being a Canadian crizere. Treat them not lightly. To the shores of our continent has onne the task of leadership in pointing the way for the peoples of the carth. You are among the potential leaders. And in the words of the universally loved Scottish poet, Robert Burns—

Administration

To the Graduate of the Class of 1961:

Your copy of the "Frontiersman" now becomes part of your biography. I hope that it may be a cherished souvenir of those rich and rewarding times in your life which you will look back upon as " those high school days." Believe me when I say that you have left your mark upon all of us who have been your teachers. You have been more than a student in our classes... you have been a friend and, I hope, that we may be counted among your friends. You now join that host of young people who have gone forth from these halls to meet more fully, more directly, the great adventure of living the good life. New frontiers will meet you, and these you will enter with confidence if your education has been in any way effective. Not only has this and other schools in which you have been had their effect upon you but so has your family, your church, and your community.

As you have realized, nothing stands still. Your generation succeeds its elders in different circumstances, and itself becomes different. We, your teachers, are trying to educate a generation to live in a future unknown to us. The prospect is forever an exciting and fearful one. We trust that we shall not fail. Yet the answer ultimately lies with you. For we must not so much raise our standards of living as much as we must be concerned with the standards of how we live. Education which sets the pattern for our culture in the western world, has been mainly concerned with the intellect, with memory training as its basis. This is not quite good enough. Many are the material advances but little or no moral advance can be measured.

I would besech you to be resolute in your determination to further the good life among your fellows: health, mental wholeness, religion, satisfying personal relationships, responsibility, achievement and creativeness. And, as you go forward to the next frontier, place your hand firmly in that of the Great Teacher.

God bless you

OUR PRINCIPAL

To You, the Frontiersman of 1963:

A new frontier looms on the horizon whether it be in the field of more advanced studies in this school or in some challenge in the world of education or in making a living outside. We who are your teachers have come to know you rather well—and you are among our friends. In and out of class, we trust that you have become imbuedwith that spirit reflected in our motto: "ad summum nitamur."

As a Frontiersman, your enterprise will be backed by courage, and your energy supported by stick-to-it-iveness. You will find eventualities over which you have no control. These, I know, you will accept with determination to give your best response. Some hardy people go out of their way to face danger in order to find courage. This builds self-reliance, trust in one's own judgment, practice in making decisions and willingness to abide by the consequences.

Your enthusiasm for living will carry you through many difficulties. Emerson said: "Nothing great was achieved without enthusiasm." It is the sign of a healthy mind; it creates zest; it will enable you to be the same in action as in desire.

You may be sure that Your School will continue to serve you. If you prove and continue to prove yourself as a student in the real sense, with a basic honesty in all you do, you may rely upon Your School to help you as you step forth toward a new frontier. So step out confidently, determined to work with energy toward the first-rate.

We are farfrom the millenium in human schievement. There are so many unfinished jobs, and there are new ones turning up every year, and there are thousands of unborn ideas that lie in the future. This is Your Time to head straight toward that appointment you have with Success.

OUR VICE-PRINCIPAL

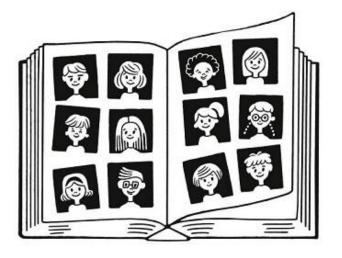

My wish for the class of '63 is that its members will have as pleasant memories of high school days as we have of them. I have stated many times that the students of this school are the equal of any, and our Graduating class this, year is no exception.

We have always appreciated the visits and letters of former students. Try to make a point of dropping in some time in the future. We are looking forward to your visit.

There are almost 3 billion people in this world: of these you are but one. There are innumerable schools in this world: of these we are but one. One school, no better or worse than many others. But it is our school. A school within whose walls walked our teachers, our friends. A school where we learned, played, and grew older. Our school. Chilliwack Senior High.

Liberals Win Mock Election

Liberals scored a landslide victory in the elections Monday.

Fortunately for the other parties, this was not the federal election — just the polls conducted among the 1,000 students of Chilliwack Senior Secondary School.

Each homeroom was a "constituency" for the purposes of the election. Liberals scored 18 seats and one tie; Social Credit was in second place with eight seats; NDP won four seats and a tie. Progressive - Conservatives romped home last with just one victory.

As a result of the balloting, a Mock Parliament will be set up in the school. Campaigns were conducted among the student body by Liberal leader Doug Linzey, campaign manager Elmer Wiens; Social Credit leader Peter Kurzreiter and manager John Blessin; NDP leader Jim Latham and manager Marcena Croy and Conservative leader Bill Alendal, who had no campaign manager.

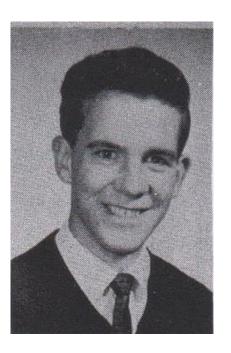

Due to the Liberals' overwhelming showing, the "opposition" will be given additional seats in the Mock Parliament.

The Mock Parliament will be a feature of "open house" activities tonight at CSSS. Displays and panel discussions will also take place.

VALEDICTORIAN, HISTORIAN

DOUG LINZEY

ELMER WIENS

To us, the grads of '63, this is perhaps the happiest, perhaps the saddest moment of our lives. The happiest because this is the culmination of many years of work and fun: the saddest because we are going to miss the life of C.H.S. Later, when names have faded and events have become dusty, we shall remember that it was here the foundation of our character was laid.

How often have we looked ahead with apprehension, deciding that we were incapable of attaining such stupendous heights as lay before us. Now, as we look back, we realize ready been realized and the "impossible" has been rendered "possible" many times over.

Now we are looking toward the impenetrable future with that same apprehension. We must proceed in the same manner as we have for the last twelve years: by applying our intellect to the conquest of knowledge; by the wholesome use of character and personality to win everlasting friendships; by persevering; and above all by being ourselves.

The future for young men and women has never been so bright. With the help of God and by exercising our motto "Ad Summum Nitamur", we will be a tribute to C.H.S.

Doug Ramey

After nine years of preparation, we had finally made it into the "Big Time" Thus far we had only been accustomed to "penny - ante stakes", now the stakes were illimitable. The exhileration we felt at reaching the verdant tables of C.H.S. was soon changed to mortification. Our adversaries, the grade Elevens, Twelves, and Thirteens, immediately realized that we were merely four-flushers and deftly palmed us the jokers from the bottom of the deck.

During our second year, Lady Luck was favourable and dealt us such memorable hands as the Christmas Assem that many of our aspirations have al- blv, the Spring Fling, and victory at the Fraser Valley Trackmeet. By our final year at the tables of CHS, we had acquired the constituents of a card shark - poker face, dextrous hands, and an ace up our sleeve. Even such plebian cards as the Easter Exams and the hanging of Edarg Evlewt by Ytrid Neetriht did not diminish our pile of chips.

Now, many of us are planning to cash in our chips, while others are leaving them in the kitty in order that they may be of more value.

We have played the game hard and fast, asking and giving no quarter, with only our motto to guide us - "The Sky's the Limit."

ELMER EPP

This easy-going fellow's interests include his guitar, skating and swimming, and a certain pretty blonde from Junior High. He's a happy character who tries to pass his tests by "divine inspi-ration," of which his "B" average is proof of his moderate success. Elmer is contemplating a future in law.

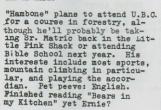

KEN ERICKSON

"Gus" is the lover of 12-A. As Vice-President of the U.N. club, he could often be found running the U.N. concession booth during the basketball games. Pet peeves are paragraphs for Mr. Steinson and being financially embarassed. Ken plans to go on to U.B.C. and engineering.

INTER SCHOOL CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP

The I.S.C.F. Club, boasting a membership of a hundred members of numerous denominations, again had a program of outstanding speakers, bible studies, films, parties, and Firs Conferences in the Spring and Fall. The traditional Christmas Banquet, roller skating party at Lynden, and a grad banquet at Brock Hall in May were the highlights of the year.

The new executive hopes to see you at the meetings next year, every Thursday in Rm. 202.

Madrigal

The Madrigal Singers, a new musical group in C.H.S., is a small organization of select voices chosen from within the Choir. This group worked, under the direction of Mr. Warr, primarily with songs from the polyphonic period of music.

Boys Glee Club

C.H.S. is very fortunate in having a group of male students who are not afraid to sing! The Boys Glee Club had a membership of over 20, and these were divided into first and second tenors, baritones, and basses. Since October they rehearsed an average of once a week under the direction of Mr. Warr and became very enthusiastic about their singing. With a repertoire consisting mainly of lighter music, the boys had a chance to exercise other muscles as well as their vocal chord in their favorite song "Dry Bones", in which they "accompanied" themselves on an assortment of lead pipes, cow bells, etc.

The Boys Glee Club earned the excellent marks of 90 and 90 in the Upper Fraser Valley Music Festival, sang for several local clubs, for the Fine Arts Week, and for other school functions. They performed during the Kamloops concerts and turned out to be the highlight of both shows.

Choir

The Choir, with a membership of over 60, was very active throughout the year, singing at several school assemblies, the Rotary Carol Festivval, and Fine Arts Week, to mention only a few. During the local Music Festival in March, they brought the trophy to C.H.S. with the outstanding marks of 91 and 93. Highlight of the year was a two-day trip to Kamloops with the Band where two performances were given, one for K.H.S. students in the afternoon another for the general public in the evening.

This year's executive was:
President: Doreen Oke
Vice Pres: Robert Hollins
Sec.-Treas: Cecile Porter
Librarian: Joan Grandy

Band

The band has been very active this past year playing at school assemblies and basketball games. It took part in the Chilliwack Music Festival and also gave a concert at Rosedale Junior High. Fine Arts Week was a busy time for the band members as there were afternoon and evening performances. A combined troup of the band and choir spent a 2 day tour to Kamloops where they gave an afternoon performance for the High School students and again that evening for the public. The band has had a very interesting and worth-while year and all thank Mr. Warr for his interest and patience.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS PLAN CARNIVAL

A mammoth carnival is being planned by Chilliwack Senior Secondary School students March 23 in place of normal homecoming festivities.

Proceedings will get under way with a parade through the downtown area 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. Carnival chairman Sandy Laird said the procession will include floats, police on motorcycles, the Apprentice Corps of Drums from Camp Chilliwack, and a car carrying Carnival Queen Sandy Teskey and her princesses.

At the school, from 2:30 to 6 p.m., the carnival will take place, featuring side-shows, concessions and all kinds of attractions.

In the evening there will be a dance for students.

The afternoon got under way with a wet but riotous parade through town, featuring the Snow Queen and her princesses on a transformed haywagon-float. The Carnival booths, put up by the clubs of CHS, the parade and the dance were such a success that the event is determined to repeat itself next year. Hello, Goodbye c.s.s. Mass Reunion

A celebration to say hello to old friends and goodbye to an era!

1950 - 2013

Hello...Goodbye

It is my distinct honour to welcome our alumni and guests to this great event. I hope that this weekend will provide a windfall of opportunities to visit with old friends and relive some of the memories of the past. The old building served us well.

Be assured there are plans in place to honour the rich history of this historic building in our new building. I would invite you to say hello to me and I would be more than happy to answer any of the questions about the past or present of C.S.S.

I would also like to take this opportunity to thank the organizing committee for the countless hours they put in to organizing this event.

Rick Jones, Principal C.S.S. Grad 1975

It gives me great pleasure, on behalf of the City of Chilliwack, to welcome you to the Hello, Goodbye reunion for Chilliwack Secondary School for the years graduated between 1950 and 2013.

I hope that you enjoy reminiscing with your former classmates and teachers.

I know that the organizing committee has spent many hours organizing this tremendous event and I commend them and those who assisted with their volunteer time and sponsorship to make this happen.

I look forward to seeing you all at the events!
